

Trademark Basics for Lone Star ITS

This document is general information, not legal advice.

Before using Lone Star ITS commercially at scale, run federal, state, domain, and common-law searches for confusingly similar marks.

Search terms may include: Lone Star ITS, Lone Star IT Services, Lone Star Information Technology Services, and similar Texas technology service names.

Use TM for an unregistered brand if appropriate. Use the registered trademark symbol only after registration is granted by the relevant trademark office.

Keep evidence of first use: website screenshots, invoices, proposals, business cards, ads, and domain registration records.

A trademark attorney can assess registrability, classification, likelihood of confusion, and whether a state or federal filing makes sense.
